- The NSS and NCC volunteers actively participated in the vaccination campaign and indulged in the vaccination process at Govt. Taluk hospital Kayamkulam. Bottles of Sanitizer was distributed to the Govt. Hospital and the Municipality by the Students and Staff of The Department of Chemistry.

- The Salabham team, the staff and students involved in the Skill development project of the college, conducted by the Economics Department distributed masks to all the students of the college and also to the Taluk hospital.
- A major grievance of the students during covid time was the lack of mobile phones to access online classes. Mobile phones were distributed to such students
- The Sanadhana project was started with a view to help the poor of the locality. The Santhwanam project was started by Ashok, partner of a nearby NGO. As a part of this project food prepared by the NSS volunteers was distributed at Kayamkulam Govt. Taluk Hospital. Later it was decided that the food brought by the students from their home is to be distributed to the poor patients in the Govt. Taluk Hospital, Kayamkulam. A department was selected for a day to donate food parcels and this continued through out the week. This project still continues.
- Under the leadership of Pathanamthitta district panchayat the NSS volunteers participated in Saksharatha survey of migrant labourers. The students identified the problems faced by them and reported to the panchayat for further action.
- As a part of Harithalayam project the students aimed at promoting vegetable cultivation. They visited their neighbourhood to encourage people to involve in their project. Students from those houses were included along with them to cultivate fresh organic vegetables finding a suitable area for cultivation. The vegetables cultivated were distributed to the people in the locality. During covid times the students cultivated vegetables at their own houses.

- To provide hand-on experience in paddy cultivation for students, the NSS of the college has taken up paddy cultivation, the project called Kathir on a plot spread over an acre near the college. Around 50 students from the college were part of transplanting paddy seedlings. Paddy was harvested on 4th August 2021. The students underwent the project as per the advice given to them by a senior farmer from a nearby village. The harvested paddy was donated to the poor families near the college. The paddy cultivation by the students was remarkably successful and was another notable achievement by the students. Honourable Manager of M.S.M. institutions, M.S.M. Trust Administrative Officer Dr Amina S, Principal Dr K. Geetha Kumari, Former Programme Officer Dr Muhammed Thaha, Ward Counselor Mrs. AttaKunju , Assistant Agricultural Officer Mrs. Vandana, Farmer Soman, Shaiju Ibrahim and Programme Officers Sri. T.Nishad and Smt. Ashidaand NSS Volunteers were present during the harvest ceremony.

- Snehakudukka, is a project which helped those students who stood economically backwards. The students collected money in small coin banks and was distributed to the neediest of the campus.
- The NSS volunteers of the college took the initiative to donate a house to Muhammed Fazal, a student of the Department of Malayalam, who was from very poor economic background. Through the project ThanalVeedu the NSS raised fund from all students, teachers and non-teaching staff to build a house for him. They were encouraged in their efforts by the NSS Programme Officers. As the pandemic was at its peak a formal meeting was arranged online to donate the house to Muhammed Fazal. Sri. Rishiraj Singh was the chief guest of the day. Prof. Dr Bhadra Kumari, the principal of the college, Al. Haj. Hilal Babu, the manager, Dr. S. Amina, the Educational Secretary of M.S.M. institutions attended the meeting.

- A seven-day camp is organized by the NSS unit every academic year, where the NSS volunteers have to stay in the adopted village and serve the community. This real time learning experience helps the volunteers to understand the social issues and how to solve them scientifically as a team.
- The institution has several clubs with a well- framed objective to encourage the students to participate in extension activities. These clubs are headed by team of faculty with students as members. The clubs prepare an action plan at the beginning of every year to carry out extension activities. These clubs and cells organize programs on fundamental rights, health and hygiene, the health and hygiene, biodiversity conservation, awareness on women empowerment, Entrepreneurship development, road safety and so on.

Evidence of Success

The college is committed to carving out a generation who would take an active role in social activities. The clubs and cells play an important role in providing an opportunity to the faculty and students to serve the society and learn leadership and organizing skills. The activities of the clubs are closely monitored by IQAC for their progress and in accordance with their plan. The college through extension activities, transforms the students as leaders of social change and to provide lasting solutions to social problems. Engaging the students in extension activities has created a sense of selfless service mindedness among the student community. The students actively participated in all voluntary service during covid times and also during flood. It has groomed overall personality of each student. The institution is moving forward with a promising goal to ensure the growth of the society and environment. The evidence of the success of the programme is available in the form of photos of the various programs, news published in the newspapers, etc. Number of participants increasing every year is one of the best evidence of success of the activity.

Problems encountered and Resources Required

The major issue faced by the volunteers was the collection of funds. However, they received the support of the teaching and non-teaching staffs and students. The project ThanalVeedu, the donation of the house to the economically backward student required more than nine lakhs. Funding needed great effort and time from the part of the volunteers. The students worked hard enthusiastically and finally succeed in the venture.

International webinar on “An exploration of Arabic Literature on Resistance and Exile”

Milad E Sherief Memorial College Department Of Arabic and IQAC in Collaboration with Kerala State Higher Education Council has conducted a webinar on “An exploration of Arabic Literature on Resistance and Exile” on 2nd September 2020. The webinar provided an overview on critical reading of Literature, of literary genres, of the contextual and political significance of Literature on resistance in exile. The webinar focused on the literature on subjects on exile and their resistance: be the larger liberal struggles for existence and identity or to gender based struggles within the community.

Dr. K Geethakumari , Principal MSM College inaugurated the webinar. Dr. A Muhammed Thaha ,HOD Department of Arabic, Dr S. Amina, Dr Neethu Sundareshan Coordinators, IQAC and Dr. S Farook Coordinator of the webinar also attended the inaugural session.

There were totally 167 participants, out of which 78 were from different foreign countries and 89 were from various other institutions across the country which included faculty and research scholars. Dr. Abdulhaq Belabid, Associate Professor, Arabic Department, College of Arts and Sciences, Qatar University & Member of Qatari Forum for Authors, Ministry of Culture and Sports, Qatar, gave the keynote address.

In his Reflections on Exile and resistance Dr. Abd el Hel BelAbid alluded that the modern era is one where "immense aggregates of humanity loiter as refugees and displaced persons." The literature on exile, if it spoke only to refugees and displaced persons, would be of relatively limited interest. But this literature has had a much wider impact.

Dr. Hussain Manasareh, Academic Critic, and Member of the Board of Directors, Union of Arab Academics and Scholars, State of Palestine, discussed the basic concepts centred around exile and their resistance from his Palestinian experiences.

Dr. Hana Shabayki, Lecturer at Prince Abdelkader University of Islamic Sciences, Constantine, Algeria placed a feminist view of exile and representation of women in resistance literature. She argued for a reading of these women's representation from a non-western feminist discours.

Dr. Mohamed Mounir Al-Zaman, Associate Professor, Department of Arabic, Rajshahi University, Bangladesh,said that though Arabic literature and postcolonial literary theory have not been adequately co-theorized, we can draw on approaches from postcolonial studies and suggest that the most urgent anti-hegemonic critiques in contemporary migration literature pertain to borders, citizenship, belonging within the kinds of precarity created in contemporary contexts of migration.

Dr. Hani Mahalli Sehha, Professor, Department of Arabic Literature, Malang State University, Indonesia, discussed that the literature on exile can be categorized according to the theme of exile such as expatriation and removal from one's native. Moreover, exile can also be considered as a human experience, self-exile and internal exile.

Mr. Anas Malmus, Research Department, University of Moulay Ismail, Meknes, Kingdom of Morocco, spoke from the different dimension on the topic of Resistance and Exile

The webinar focussed on examining the various forms of exile and resistance. The definition of resistance literature and its defining parameters revealed that there is a pioneering and powerful political role assigned to it, as writing turns out to be a tool in the cultural resistance through its use of symbols, characters and metaphors. A lot has been said about literature and the concept of exile, such is true given that in each century, migrations and exiles have been regarded differently. However, the 20th century experienced a larger scale of intellectual exile than the previous migrations. While exile is normally associated with negative connotations, within the literary context, it brings about positive effects to the writers.

The discussions were beneficial for the faculty as well as research scholars as they raised many critical questions in due course of the webinar. The overall organization and delivery of the webinar was helpful and satisfactory for the participants. The entire session was interactive and the speakers answered many queries raised by the participants. Also the feedback about the session was collected from all the participants to improve the sessions that will be conducted in the near future. The certificate format, feedback data collected from the participants and participants list are attached along with the news story by an online Egyptian news bulletin covering the webinar details for your kind perusal and necessary action.

Evidence of Success

The students were able to listen to the intellectual discourses of scholars both from within and outside the country. Students benefitted by listening to multidisciplinary topics. They were exposed to multidisciplinary research areas which reflected in their academics. Students became familiar with using online modes of learning and also benefited out of it. They were also able to interact with international scholars. Students learned to organize the programs, develop communication skills organizational abilities and team working skills. Further, it increased the confidence of the students to adjust with any difficult situations.

Problems encountered and resources utilised

The major problem was the fear of the Covid pandemic itself. The students lost the opportunity to meet the great scholars and to interact directly with them. Students who were from remote areas of the district faced network issues. Recorded videos of the sessions of the seminar were later send to them.
